KostaBoda

At Kosta Boda, we have worked with glass for close to 300 years. We haven't tired yet. If anything, our passion for the material and its magical properties keeps growing. Today, our production spans interior design, lifestyle and art – fueled by a quest to keep evolving, constantly seeking new expressions, by turns bold and accessible.

Our works enrich your home for everyday life and parties, always made with a style and quality intended to last for many years. Collections range from utility items that heighten meals, drinks and community, to innovative shapes that beautify spaces where people live and create memories together.

Kosta Boda is not only about what we do, but also who we are. Courage, determination and collaboration have been guiding principles for both brand and employees since we started in 1742. Other central qualities are craftsmanship, creativity and artistic freedom. The result is a tradition of inspiring, progressive glass production, divided into the areas Kosta Boda Collection and Kosta Boda Art Glass.

Kosta Boda Collection

The ambition of Kosta Boda Collection is to capture the spirit of the times in the form of commercial lifestyle products. The range consists of well-designed and functional interior items. Complementary materials can be used, but always with the glass in focus. We find inspiration in the collective history of the glassworks and designers like Signe Persson-Melin and Erik Höglund, complemented by present-day influences. The collections encompass fashion, music and art, and aim to beautify and enhance modern everyday life – whether it concerns dining-table accessories, interior design or celebration.

Bod

Simon Klenell & Matti Klenell

Bod is a playful tribute to the possibilities of glass craftsmanship. Two individually familiar forms, fused into a single object with a new, wholly unique expression. These asymmetrical, stemmed bottles are also a nod to Kosta Boda's long-standing production of wine glasses.

Bod's inspiring design triggers creativity in terms of both content and placement. Its confident shape makes it a natural fit in your home irrespective of room and does an impressive job presenting flowers as well as other decorative elements from the woods, beach or nature including beverages and fluids such as oils and vinegars.

The series consists of decorative bottles in different colors and sizes. It's created through a collaboration, a balancing act between the different working methods of two designers (who are also brothers). The result stands firm, right on the border between sculpture and utility object.

Caramba

Ulrica Hydman-Vallien

The inspiration for this Kosta Boda series from 1986 stems from a trip to Mexico. "¡Ay, caramba!" is a bold statement that indicates admiration, surprise or anger. It's a word associated with strong emotions, a strength reflected in Ulrica Hydman Vallien's hand-painted black details in the mouth-blown glass.

Contrast

Anna Ehrner

Southern Sweden's Kingdom of Crystal has a proud tradition of pushing the craft forward. An example is the technique called glass centrifugation, which was invented here in the 1950s. In the series Contrast, this technique comes into its own, where the coloring's path through the glass - using color powder and sticks - creates billowing veils, giving each object a unique pattern. Contrast from Kosta Boda was launched in 2005 and consists of bowls, dishes and vases in several sizes and colors.

Crackle

Åsa Jungnelius

Crackle defies all preconceptions and makes a glassblower's nightmare – cracked glass – its raison d'être. Here it's used to give the object beauty and character.

The mold is dug out of clay by hand and the cracked surface is formed using an ancient technique where the hot glass is dipped in ice cold water. The result is a series of objects whose expression changes depending on perspective and distance, reminiscent of sculptures made of colored ice.

Crackle by Kosta Boda was launched in 2020 and consists of vases and a bowl, all mouth-blown in Kosta. In 2023, the Crackle Circular series won the prestigious international 'Best of the Best' - Red Dot Design Award.

Gabba Gabba Hey

Ludvig Löfgren

Like life itself – at once inscrutable, playful, serious, beautiful – the gorilla sits there, with its rounded shape and arms crossed.

The Gabba Gabba Hey series invites each viewer to make their own interpretation. But however you see it, it will surely catch your attention. Since its launch in 2010, the series has come to exert its special appeal all over the world. The sculptures are designed by Ludvig Löfgren and mouth-blown in Kosta.

Jomo

Nina Christensen

Jomo is a collaboration between Kosta Boda and Swedish designer Nina Christensen. The series' unexpected combination of shapes playfully breaks the rules of how glasses are supposed to look, creating a unique expression. The organic lines and the weight of the glass add to the experience.

True to her style and craft, Christensen makes the essence of glass – and the fascinating physical properties of glassblowing – part of the finished object.

The Jomo series consists of four versatile and contemporary mouth-blown glasses with a distinguished bar feel, each with strong character and distinct appearance.

Kappa

Mimmi Blomqvist

Kappa is a series of vases in different sizes and executions by Mimmi Blomqvist for Kosta Boda. The series is mouth-blown into shape and is named after the bubble, or cap, that rises over the edge of the mold during manufacture. It is also this cap that has inspired the beautiful, billowing shape of the vases. The collection includes multiple styles, sizes and colors including a selection offered in circular glass produced from waste glass at Kosta Glassworks resulting in a unique coloration – shades from blue to green – for each object.

Kappa was launched in 2021 and is both a tribute to the artisanal history of glass and designed for a sustainable future.

Limelight

Göran Wärff

Limelight is one of Kosta Boda's classics, a series that since the 1980s has highlighted the beautiful and festive aspects of everyday life. The glasses, vases, bowls and other pieces invite you to create beautiful settings every day of the week – not least since everything is dishwasher safe.

The series is characterized by a massive base, whose equally decorative and subtle pattern adds a light-diffusing, shimmering effect on any and all of your everyday festivities.

Line

Anna Ehrner

Who says we need such a sharp division between celebration and everyday life? This series is born from the idea that every new day is worth celebrating. Line is mouth-blown at Kosta Glassworks and radiates the same elegance today as when the collection first saw the light of day in 1982. Then and now, the final touch – the iconic, spun glass thread that gave the series its name – is applied by hand, in proud Swedish craft tradition.

Line consists of a carafe and several different glasses: wine, tumbler, martini, gin tonic, cognac, champagne, beer and aquavit.

Meadow

Sara Persson

A wild, blossoming field. That's both the inspiration for and expression of Meadow, a series of vases that look just as good on their own as holding a sheaf of roses. Or tulips, a mixed bouquet, a solitary flower, a well-chosen twig.

Meadow is made using a glass-crushing technique where the vases are rolled in colored, crushed glass while they are still red-hot. The shards blend into and become part of the glass itself, and no two vases are alike. The organic pattern combined with the straight lines creates a playful whole that highlights the craftsmanship, while the shape of the vase highlights the floral splendor it embraces.

Mine

Ulrica Hydman-Vallien

Mine is a series of asserted products that are equally suitable for special occasions and enhancing everyday moments. The message is simple: let your home be a place to enjoy, every day.

The pieces are manufactured by glass centrifugation, a technique invented in Småland, Sweden, in the early 1950s. When color is added, swirling veils are created inside the glass, where each pattern becomes completely unique.

Mine from Kosta Boda, launched in 2002, is available in a black and a white version, and consists of bowls, plates, tumbler glasses and a vase.

Moss

Åsa Jungnelius

The lines are familiar, but the whole is unlike anything else. Here, this soft paradox describes both the appearance and the manufacturing process. Moss is created from reused old molds from Kosta Glassworks, which have been carved by hand to bring out new shapes and create the irregular, textured surface.

The glass has unique color variations since it's made with circular glass, where waste glass is used. Small bubbles may also appear in the recycled glass. Why not let yourself be inspired – and fill up with even more bubbles?

New Friends

Ernst Billgren

In his creative output, renowned Swedish artist Ernst Billgren has a habit of moving between artistic expressions, not seldom executed with themes close to nature and a light-hearted touch. The New Friends series, launched in 2008, is an excellent example.

The animal motifs become one with the glass in a clever, playful and decorative way. One animal for each piece, masterfully made by the Kosta Glassworks' craftsmen. Resting carefree at the bottom of the glass – happy to share this drink with you. After all, meeting someone over a drink is a great way to make new friends.

Open Minds

Ulrica Hydman-Vallien

Ulrika Hydman Vallien's creation Open Minds is mouth-blown, and hand-painted with dramatic brushstrokes. Please excuse us if we become a bit boastful about this modern classic: the series cannot only be seen in homes around the world, but has also done cameos in TV series such as Friends and Sex and the City.

Open Minds was launched in 1986 and consists of a dish and two vases.

Pagod

Anne Nilsson

Kosta Boda's Pagod is a series of elegant vases reminiscent of the 1960s. With a design intended to enhance and beautify cut flowers, the vases have a clear function.

The series is mouth-blown and made with an underlay technique two layers of glass, providing a well-crafted and stylish result. A layer of clear glass lies like a casing over an inner colored layer, letting its true color shine through. Pagod was launched in 2018.

Front

Pavilion is a series of vases, made in collaboration with renowned Swedish design studio Front. The six pieces share a distinct expression – with its characteristic geometric interplay – yet are wildly different in shape. They range from wide-mouthed, ready to embrace sprawling bouquets, to slender ones, perfect for a single flower or decorative twig.

A combination of vertical and horizontal ridges, Pavilion's signature pattern makes it instantly recognizable and, if we may say so, gives it the energy of a future classic.

Picnic

Bertil Vallien

When Picnic was launched in 1967, the underlying idea was to challenge the bourgeoisie's fixation on excessively large stemware sets. Why have so many pieces, when you can drink straight from the bottle or from simple glasses? Thus a classic was born, with a timeless, mouth-blown simplicity and splendor that works just as well today.

Stout but hollow stems allow the glasses to be filled right down to the base, accentuating the drink's color in a decorative way. Another lovely detail is the playful dynamic between glassware and carafe.

Picnic from Kosta Boda consists of glasses in two sizes, and a carafe with a cork.

Polar

Göran Wärff

Nature, light and ice – it was out of love for these great entities that Polar was born almost 50 years ago. This timeless series consists of a number of glass sculptures reminiscent of rippling water frozen in time. Each sculpture also doubles as a votive, where the clear glass refracts and diffuses the light to set the mood.

Polar from Kosta Boda invites you to combine and group different sizes, although each makes a beautiful design object on its own. Or as a unique gift, e.g. from Sweden to the Sydney Opera House (true story).

Polar was launched in 1974 and consists of votives in several different colors and sizes.

Polka

Kosta Boda

Polka by Kosta Boda is a series of glass decorations made in the image of traditional Swedish polka-stripe candy canes. Polka is set to be a seasonal favorite, whether for the holidays or other festive occasions. Since their very shape comes with a built-in hook, they are perfect for hanging in your Christmas tree or other suitable holiday spot.

The Polka canes come in three colorways – red/white, green/white, and yellow/white – where the mix of glass and vibrant colors make them look as delicious as they are beautiful.

Rocky Baroque

Hanna Hansdotter

A rebellious take with ancient roots, the Rocky Baroque series from Kosta Boda is a playful remix of the classical column. Monumental contours meet raw, jagged surfaces in this series of candlesticks and vases. Pop colors mix with unyielding shapes, and the collection resides in the borderlands between sculpture and utility object, a recurring theme in Hanna Hansdotter's design. Humor and irony are other tools used to interpret and challenge authoritarian principles. The result is its own genre – Rocky Baroque.

Hanna Hansdotter describes herself as being drawn to the crossroads between the harsh and the decorative. When that spirit is captured as perfectly as with Rocky Baroque, who are we to argue?

Salong Betong

Salong Betong

Salong Betong – under the motto Notorious before unknown – has reached far beyond the world of tattoo-parlors which is their artistic origin. The collab with Kosta Boda rendered this series of bar glasses for various drinks, with or without alcohol, where the Kosta Boda logo has been remixed and sampled with a fond irreverence into several graphic patterns.

The series, launched in 2022, has a glass for each type of drink. Cheers!

Snowball

Ann Wolff

Snowball from Kosta Boda is not just any candle holder. This iconic glass votive has illuminated its surroundings since 1973, when it was created through an experiment in which glass was blown directly inside a snowdrift. It has since sold over 15 million copies worldwide. With a shape and surface as if actually made of snow, Snowball continues to evoke memories of childhood's snow lanterns – while lighting the winter darkness here and now.

Don't let the sight frighten you. While the appearance may be a dramatic nod to Shakespeare's Hamlet, it's just a series of votives. Nevertheless, it's a splendid option for an out-of-the-ordinary glass decoration, a memento mori reminding you to light a candle while you can.

Still Life from Kosta Boda was launched in 2008, and is available in several executions.

Sugar Dandy

Åsa Jungnelius

Sugar Dandy, launched in 2010, is about breaking with tradition – up to a certain point. The series consists of three oversized coupes, each with a discreet splash of color where the cup meets the stem. The subtle shades of green, blue and pink make it easy to create unique and personal table settings. And whoever wants just a tiny glass of champagne? Or soda, for that matter. Or why not break a few more rules – an all-out coup(e) – and serve dessert out of a glass? You decide.

The Rock

Hanna Hansdotter

The lineage is clear, yet The Rock stands firmly on its own. In celebrating the 50th anniversary of Ann Wolff's iconic Snowball, Hanna Hansdotter has created a worthy homage. This series of votives and bowls, available in multiple colors, reinvents the familiar, irregular surface, now with a dramatic silhouette and a gem-like color palette.

To sum it up, all fans of Snowball – with 15 million sold, we are many – are in for a déjà vu that's as progressive as it is pleasant.

Viva

Matti Klenell

Viva from Kosta Boda unites old traditions and contemporary lifestyle. The soft design of the series is a romantic echo from the glassworks' rich history. Simple lines that together form a strong entity, made for the modern dining table and to bring people together.

Viva consists of glasses in three different sizes and a carafe capped with a small glass that works to drink from (when it's not upside down atop the carafe, that is). The collection launched in 2020.
