Carole Baijings, a colourist at heart

About the designer

Carole Baijings is regarded as one of Europe's leading contemporary industrial designers. She is known for her precise use of colour, pattern and detail, and has collaborated with brands including Samsung, IKEA, HAY and Herman Miller. Her work is characterised by a refined balance between functionality and aesthetics, resulting in designs that are both timeless and innovative. This design philosophy is also reflected in Étoile, where subtle details, elegant proportions and a contemporary interpretation of fine dining come together.

About the collection

Étoile brings together distinctive Dutch design and contemporary craftsmanship in a collection created for refined hospitality concepts. Named after the French word for "star", the collection draws inspiration from skies, light and atmosphere. Soft colour gradients and layered watercolour patterns create depth and movement, giving each piece a unique character while maintaining a harmonious overall appearance.

Designed by renowned Dutch designer Carole Baijings, Étoile balances creativity with functionality. The layered decoration reveals itself differently on every shape, creating a dynamic visual effect that makes the collection instantly recognizable. Carefully developed forms and decors can be effortlessly combined, allowing chefs and restaurateurs to create flexible yet cohesive table settings.

Produced in Europe from high density vitreous stoneware, Étoile combines refined aesthetics with exceptional durability for professional use. Sustainable manufacturing methods, recycled materials and an energy efficient single firing process further reflect the collection's thoughtful approach to both design and production.
